A screenshot of the top portion of the ComputerWeekly.com website. The browser address bar shows "https://www.computerweekly.com". The navigation menu includes "NEWS", "IN DEPTH", "BLOGS", "OPINION", "VIDEOS", "PHOTO STORIES", "PREMIUM CONTENT", and "2019 SALARY SURVEY RESULTS". There are links for "LOGOUT", "COOKIES", "RSS", and social media icons for Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn. A search bar is present with the text "Search Computer Weekly" and a magnifying glass icon. Below the search bar are dropdown menus for "IT Management", "Industry Sectors", and "Technology Topics". A banner for "WELCOME TO EVERGREEN" by Pure Storage is visible at the bottom of this section.

A screenshot of the main content area of the ComputerWeekly.com website. It features two columns: "Top Stories" and "Photo Story". The "Top Stories" section has a headline "Most influential women in UK tech: The 2019 longlist" with a sub-headline "In its search for the most influential women in UK technology, each year Computer Weekly rates the tech industry". The "Photo Story" section has a headline "Draft finance bill dims hopes of private sector reprieve on IR35" with a sub-headline "Publication of the draft IR35 private sector reform legislation dims hopes the government might announce a delay to rolling out the changes in April 2020". A "View All Stories" button is located at the bottom of the "Photo Story" section.

The main content area has three columns of articles: "Windows 10 to enable passwordless sign-in", "Draft finance bill dims hopes of private sector reprieve on IR35", and "Securing your mobile estate - best practice for CIOs". The sidebar on the right features a "WELCOME TO EVERGREEN" banner for Pure Storage and a "DOWNLOAD THIS FREE GUIDE" section for "ANZ IT Salary Trends in 2019". The "ANZ IT Salary Trends in 2019" section includes a sub-headline "Here you can find everything about the IT salary trends in ANZ, including the perks that will keep IT workers in their jobs, the most sought-after roles in the sector, as well as the state of workforce" and a small image of the guide cover. A "Privacy - Terms" link is visible in the bottom right corner.

AMDGPU DC Gets A Number Of Fixes For Navi & Other Clean-Ups

The past few weeks while AMD open-source developers were busy getting their Navi enablement code public and aligned for the Linux 5.3 merge window, the display core "DC" frequent code drops ceased. Every so often AMD developers volley their DC patches from their internal development trees to the public mailing list for queuing ahead of the next cycle. Now that Navi is out there and getting stabilized, they've issued a new set of DC patches and it's coming in heavy.
